WHAT’S NEW?
Already this month, the Library has added a wide variety of materials to its collections. Among them are full-text online ENGnetBASE handbooks, Florida Tech theses and dissertations, several sets of encyclopedias (from world holidays and celebrations to measurement and statistics), Florida tax handbooks, and the Connections I DVD series. Visit the LINK’s Library News section to view the full list of New Materials and to find easy access to high-quality New Links to Internet Sites.

GRADUATE RESEARCH WORKSHOP DEADLINE
Monday, April 7, is the deadline for this semester’s graduate research workshop. Geared toward the thorough literature review and other bibliographic research needs of graduate students, this half-day workshop will be offered on Friday, April 11, 1:00 – 4:30 p.m., as well as on Saturday, April 12, 8:45 a.m. – 12:15 p.m. For registration and other information, go to the online form, visit the LINK “Library News” section, or contact Instructional Programs Technician Joanne Savage (674-7656 or jsavage@fit.edu).

LIBRARY’S 4th FLOOR RE-OPENING
After a long, complex mold remediation process and a deep cleaning, the Library’s 4th floor re-opened on Wednesday, March 5! A recent silent survey revealed that students are very pleased. Found keyboarding on their laptops, studying together, and concentrating on textbooks, survey participants expressed their appreciation for being able once again to check out library materials, to escape to the SILENT ZONE, to work together in group study rooms, and to enjoy the view.

In order to alleviate some of the limitations necessitated by the floor’s closing, library personnel had retrieved more than a thousand books for Florida Tech faculty and students. Tremendous thanks go to all who demonstrated patience, cooperation, and understanding during this difficult situation.
