FROM THE DEAN’S DESK: PUBLIC PRINTER VISITS EVANS LIBRARY!

Robert Tapella, the Public Printer of the United States, and his Special Assistant, Trenholm Boggs, visited the library on January 7, 2010. They requested a briefing on “the coolest, most unique items or projects being worked on at Florida Tech.”

We therefore began with an overview of recent major gifts to Florida Tech to support research in areas such as information assurance, autism, Alzheimer’s disease, and astrophysics, with discussion of the QEP and the students’ roles in research projects.

The two impressive funded research and government document displays located on the first floor were a focus of the tour. Following a demonstration of how the library enters new items into the catalog and collections, the party then visited the third floor to view the government documents collection and the two newly transformed rooms, the Presentation Practice room and the Collaborative Study room; and the Link Multimedia Room, for a presentation of the electronic collections of government information.

Following a photo opportunity in Panther Plaza with President Catanese, the tour concluded with an affirmation of the Faculty Library Committee’s role in promoting the depository collections and the Library’s commitment to collecting and disseminating government information to the campus and the community.
